

THE CAPITAL COMPASS

DESIGNING CLASSROOMS WITH CARE

Thanks to the amazing support from our donors and community partners, construction on the new Early Learning Center is really coming along! While the walls are going up, we’ve been busy planning what’s going inside — the spaces where little ones will play, explore, and grow.

Our team is working with educational design experts to choose furniture and features that create a warm, engaging place for kids to learn. It’s a team effort, and we’re making sure everything is just right for the teachers who will use these spaces every day and the children who will benefit from them for years to come.

We feel incredibly fortunate to have so many dedicated voices — staff, community partners, donors, and YMCA patrons like you — all thinking ahead to the future generations of children who will grow, learn, and thrive in this new space.

SUPPORTIVE SPACES FOR ALL

We’re thrilled to be working with Trisha Klausing, an Occupational Therapist who supports the Y’s Child Development programs, to help design both our sensory room and gross motor spaces.

By partnering with Trisha to ensure that every area is thoughtfully created to support children of all abilities — helping every child feel welcome, supported, and ready to learn.

APPROACHING OUR GOAL

With $7,739,835 already raised toward our $10 million goal, our fundraising efforts continue to gain momentum. Additional funds from the anticipated sale of our existing Child Development Center are expected to bring us even closer to beginning Phase II of the Capital Campaign.
